Summary of Blueprint Meetings and Activities within RCT.

The young people completed the first Blueprint Newsletter, which has been sent out to looked after young people in RCT.

The young people worked with Promo Cymru, a digital media company, to develop a series of digital stories. The stories covered, The challenges young people face growing up in care and leaving care, and services that could support them. 'It was just a photo', is a simple story around the impact on 'sexting' on the lives of young people. These digital stories aim to be shared on media platforms aimed at young people and professionals. The young people would like to explore the possibility of these videos being uploaded onto the Two Sides website.

The development and creation of these Digital Stories took place over 2 days with the young people. The young people discussed potential themes for their digital stories. They developed storyboards on the content of the video. The video content was designed and developed by the young people with assistance from Promo Cymru. The young people received 'Creating a Video Production Level 1' YMCA Wales Community College accreditation for taking part in the project.

A session aiming to provide the young people an opportunity to meet and take part in an informal bilateral Q&A with service leaders and to showcase the above digital stories had to be rearranged due to unforeseen circumstances.

The group took part in a research focus group session with Leeds Beckett University. The research, commissioned by Voices From Care and the Who Cares? Trust based in London, seeks to discover the groups views and experiences of any stigma young people feel because they are looked after.

Voices From Care were commissioned by the Welsh Government to develop a 'one year on' summery, with the blueprint forum responding in November. The aim of the session was to provide the young people with the opportunity to feed into the Welsh Governments 1 year review of 'raising the ambitions and educational attainment of looked after children'. The session focused on key themes identified by the consultation document 'Education...what it means to me' developed by in 2015.

The blueprint summer trip to Oakwood took place, this provided an opportunity for new members of the group to build bonds with existing members of the group.

Summary interactions with National Projects

Below provides a snapshot of some of the Blueprint Forums' interactions with Voices From Care's National Membership Programme.

- Many of the group attended Voices From Care's 'Listen Up' Summer and Autumn Regional Participation Groups, Alongside young people from Cardiff, Vale of Glamorgan and Merthyr. The Regional Groups provided young people with an opportunity to influence policy, practice and guidance on a national level.

For the Summers session ,the young people worked with Children In Wales who are developing health information resources for children looked after and care leavers.

The Autumn/Winter 'listen up' session, focused on developing a series of digital stories on young people's experiences in foster care. These will inform the National Fostering Framework (Recommendation 6), a work stream from the Improving Outcomes for Children Ministerial Advisory Group.

- Young People supported to take part in a 3 day summer school at the Royal Welsh College of Music and Drama. This opportunity allowed young people to be taught by those in the arts industry, to develop and discover their creative skills and experience what it would be like as a student at the RWCMD. Workshop sessions included exploring care identity and promoting positive aspirations. The aim of the summer school was to inspire young people through the arts and promote aspirations of higher education. In December young people from RCT attended an evening workshop; co developed and delivered by VFC and RWCMD, that focused on confidence building and exploring some of the key themes in the Shakespearian play 'the Two Gentlemen of Verona'. The young people then went to see the play afterwards at the RWCMD.
