Oaklands Primary School

These Young Ambassadors have played a key role in developing sport and physical activity across their school. They delivered presentations in four classes and to school governors, sharing their ideas and gathering pupil voice to help shape their roles and activities. They created questionnaires to collect further feedback and used this information to plan improvements and activities. They researched and priced equipment, completed order forms for new resources, and improved the organisation and storage of the sports equipment. They have established zoned areas on the playground and now run daily multi-sports activities for Years 1–3 during breaktimes. In addition, they work alongside staff to deliver a weekly after-school club for reception to Year 2 children. The group meets regularly with staff to review progress, discuss ideas, and plan future sessions and games to ensure activities remain engaging and successful.

“I feel this has given me a good opportunity to work with young pupils and lead sports sessions.”

“I like how we work together to give the younger children sports games to do outside and have fun.”
